Guns do harm. Guns cause tragedies. The President of the NRA blames what happened on Black Clothing. That's ridiculous! Tell the Nra how you feel.

A love for hitler? These are some theories.

Word is that these sick bastards liked Adolf Hitler. Could that be why this tragedy ocured on the date of his birthday?

Or was it there love of marijuana that chose the date for this fiasco. The date was 4/20 and the so called "time" to smoke pot is 4:20. Coincidence? Maybe not.

Alot of people are complaining that i'm blaming this on marijuana. I'm not really. I don't truly think that marijuana is the cause. it's an interesting correlation I noticed.

KMFDM is a band whose lyrics were quoted on one TCM member's website. The band is based out of Seattle and they recently released thier last Album. I'm not blaming what happened on this band or any band. Just think it's interesting to see.

Is the Trench Coat Mafia a National thing or just local to Colorado?

I really don't know for sure. I can't get a good answer to that question anywhere. I've gotten some emails that claim that the TCM has members at schools nationwide. One person claimed that he can remember a Trench Coat Mafia on the East Coast sometime between 1991 and 1994.

Littleton, Colorado - Though the number of schoolchildren dead dipped from twenty five to fifteen late that night, it didn't make the horrifying events of April 20th, 1999 any more bearable. There are thirty parents without children this morning, plus the parents of shooters Dylan Klebold and Eric Harris. The one question in their minds, and indeed in minds all over the world is WHY?

Trench Coat Mafia

The news reports were ominous. A group whose photo appeared in the 1998 yearbook for upper middle class Columbine High School in Littleton, Colorado with the caption "Who says we're different? Insanity's healthy. ... Stay alive, stay different, stay crazy," a group who other students called "Black Trench Coat Mafia" because of their secretive ways and trademark daily wearing of trench coats, had attacked their high school with firearms and pipe bombs, killing over a dozen students and wounding many more. But why?

The day of the shooting was the 110th anniversary of Adolf Hitler's birth. A student in a televised interview on MSNBC said that the shooters were pointing their weapons and their rage towards African Americans and jocks that day, shooting at people of color and those who wore baseball caps, male and female alike.

The numeric date of April 20th is also a well recognized California police code. 4-20 or 4:20 is the code for marijuana smoking in progress. AOL profiles found online before the suspect's names were released indicated an affinity for drugs.

Whatever the motivation for these heinous killings, all of America is reeling from its

An Internet Education on Hate and Terror

It's astonishingly easy to obtain information on hate via the internet. Our society has the world at it's fingertips, both good and bad. Instruction for making the destructive chemical weapons used in the Columbine massacre can be found in several places on the internet, under the title Anarchist's Cookbook. All one needs is a few chemicals, a fuse, and a container, such as PVC pipe or an aluminum baseball bat.

Enforcing Prejudice with Pipe Bombs

Also on the internet are sites dealing with hate and prejudice. Adolf Hitler's legacy is present on the internet, so are the KKK and other hate groups. In this age of worldwide communication, even an upper middle class suburb is not far enough away from the hate of racists and the problems of the larger city. All hatred needs is a willing student, and those who are not active or popular in school are more likely to want to have power in another area. Their need to be different, to stand out, is twisted into a need to dominate and hate all who are not like them.

How Can America Help Stop the Schoolyard Shootings?

There is ticking time bomb in our schools. Students, for whatever reason, feel compelled to hate and kill. What can America do? First, we must realize that we are dealing with a mental health issue. These boys were sick, they needed help. Klebold and Harris chose hatred over hockey, drama, or other extracurricular activities. Their behavior was seen by many students, but never documented and dealt vicious celebration. News reports paint the group as dark, violent, and interested in Hitler, Swastikas, weapons, and decapitation. Now it is our turn as a country to ask: How could such a group be overlooked by local guidance counselors?

Any sane American would agree that if a child showed an interest in Hitler, pipe bombs, and decapitation, they should undergo psychiatric evaluation. How were these children overlooked, allowed to proceed with their murderous intent unchecked by our mental health system?

The answer is twofold. First, from school reports, this Trench Coat Mafia group had never been in trouble before. In truth, both boys had felony charges filed against them previously, and had served time in a diversion program. Our legal system is already burdened with law breaking delinquents, so much so that murderous intent must show itself in actions before we allocate the resources to stop it.

The second part is perhaps the most frightening of all... Klebold and Harris are not the only two boys in America to fit the 'antisocial' profile. There is a Trench Coat Mafia type group in every high school, in every town across the nation. Ask your children who they are, they'll tell you.

They are the outcasts, they wear black, don't participate in sports or extracurricular activities, they may listen to heavy metal, industrial, or Goth music, they may try to hack computers, or play shoot-em-up games like Doom. They are the greasers, the bad boys of old who smoked cigarettes behind the school. Now, instead of just skipping class, some are skipping life in favor of mass murder and suicide.

From Smoking Cigarettes to Smoking Guns

How do teens, whether normal or outcast, turn into killers? Wearing black, listening to

with by school officials.

It is now the responsibility of EVERY parent and student in America to reform a sense of community in our cities and schools. We must start looking out for one another again.

Parents: ask your children if they've seen any antisocial behavior on campus by other students.

Students: tell parents and instructors and counselors if you see or hear anything that scares you at school.

Students like Klebold and Harris are crying out on campuses across America, crying out with threats of violence, discussions of Nazism, and doodles of swastikas and devils, and their cries are being met with deafening silence from their fellow students and school personnel.

Littleton has made the problem of school violence and hatred a reality and a possibility on every campus and in every town across America. It is up to us to stop the violence and help our children before they turn to destruction.

industrial music like the KMFDM lyrics quoted in Harris' website, and playing Doom does not make a child a killer. Obviously the vast majority of 'alternative' students are non-violent. It is only when you mix a child who does not feel comfortable with his/her place in society, feels isolated and alone, and beliefs which give them a solution to their problems, through violence, hatred, or discrimination, that you end up with a killer.

TONY DA SKITZO - INTERVIEW

by Bevan Jee Bomb: How did your name originate? Tony: Well... I was walking downtown one day trying to think of a name for myself with all the many styles that I carry inside my head and I ran across this bum and he was walking by me and he was talking to himself. He was just mumbling but he was really determined about what he was talking about and I said "man that motherfucker is really schizophrenic" and I was like hey... I'm the Skitzo! Bomb: How did you get started in hip-hop? Tony: I wasn't a rapper, I was a dancer. I used to dance with this other cat. I was hoping he would help me do a couple of tracks or whatever but he was close minded. So then I gave up dancing and just started rhyming full time and started putting all my heart into it in '89. Then I went through a couple of groups and people were telling me I should go solo and do kinds of stuff and finally when I really began taking it seriously that's how I became the Skitzo, that was like in '91, '92. Bomb: Who had a major influence on you? Tony: My major rap influence is KRS-One. No question! Not only because he's got skills, he's saying stuff I have other influences too like jazz influences - Miles Davis, Chervone, all kinds of cats. I'm influenced by everything around me. I'm influenced by people that I live with, that I hang out with. I feel basically my influence. Bomb: Describe your style of rapping? Tony: Actually I don't have a particular style but if you had to put it in a category I would say somewhere between Shaolin technique and Ninja technique. I don't know I'm a different type of guy. Bomb: You're featured on "The Next Chapter" out on Immortal Records. Tell us a bit about the project and your track on the album? Tony: It came out on Halloween (1995). The project is basically about twenty unsigned acts and Immortal decided to get together and say "Hey let's just take some of this raw underground shit and put it all on one piece of vinyl." They picked out some of the best ones or whatever and put it out calling it "The Next Chapter". The cut I got on there is called "Are You Crazy?" and me being the Skitzo I like to pose all the questions on people's minds, kinda like a psychiatrist. Each verse is about different forms of madness, or different symptoms of madness. Bomb: Are you down with Ras Kass & The Western Hemisphere Crew? Tony: I don't know them personally but yeah I'm definitely down with them, those my west coast brothers. Right now there is kinda a little subliminal war between going on between the east and the west. They're trying to downplay it but I know there's something going on. So it's like Western Hemisphere, Pharcyde, Hieroglyphics, we represent the new generation of the west coast and I got to stick by them, brothers no matter what cause when it all comes down to battling like Western Hemisphere, they're the ones that I would say "O.K., you guys hook up with me and my crew and we go to the east and just burn shit down!" I wouldn't hook up with Ice Cube or WC and the M.O.D. Circle, no offense. I love my gangsta shit I'm from California but when it comes time to just rip heads off with the lyrics it's all about the new generation of the west coast. Bomb: So you listen to those types of groups? Tony: I listen to that mostly and then I listen to my gangsta. I listen to a lot east coast too because right about now they're booming, they got so much shit coming out! You just really can't deny the fact that they coming out with some phat shit. You automatically gotta listen to the Wu - they don't even come out with rap albums anymore, they come out with rap sagas so you automatically got to give them respect and listen to their stuff no matter what. Then there's Nas, the new BDP, Mobb Deep, Tribe Called Quest... all them. You got to listen to them but basically I listen to as much underground west coast stuff I can cause that's where the phattest lyrics on Earth are - hands down! I've got that track with Saafir/Ras Kass and Ahmad (Come Widdit), there ain't too many tracks on the east coast that could really hang with that track. There are not many people on the east coast that could lyrically battle with those cats as individuals anyway. Bomb: Saafir's on another level, huh? Tony: Exactly. Saafir he represents the next generation. I got a crew, well I got part of my crew there called Pimpin' Comprehension and they got some next shit too. It could take you a whole year to figure out like five of their cats. You would have to get somebody to decipher the lyrics for you or something. Bomb: Tell us a little bit about the underground cassette "The Back Road EP" and your "12"? Tony: Well the EP has four songs by myself and four songs on the other side by Pimpin' Comprehension. The "12" contains three of the songs from the EP by me. Basically that's some stuff I did with not necessarily my old producers but just some cats that I used to work with. Have you heard any of stuff we've done? Bomb: Just a 30 second sample of the song "Molasses"? Tony: Oh Really? That's my "old back smoke a chrome blum flowing as a river song right there but "Who U Talkin' 2?" my other cat is basically showing the world who I am. I got a couple of other cuts on there. "Simple" is about people with simple minds and then "Man on" which is about trying to get your man on, trying to get some... sex or whatever the slaughter way. Pimpin'/Comprehension, on their side they got a song called "Hair" which is basically that it's about people's hair, one called "Stand and Deliver" is nothing but straight raw lyrics. There's another one called "Opposites" that's about negative and positive female vibes and shit. They real deep, it's some shit you have to really peep out. They're in half of my crew called the "High Plains Drifters" and the other half of my crew is called "The Human Savages". Bomb: Tell me a bit about each of those crews and the projects that they are working on? Tony: Well Skizzo's half "Savage" and half "Drifter" and the Drifters are basically the mystics out of the entire crew. We create magic potions and spells and hypnotic effects on the entire world to give them an understanding and the Human Savages, they're basically just that. That's just straight to you, neck if you don't watch out your neck could just get cut off on accident- blades flying around everywhere mace, blood, they're real graphic with their approach to the lyrics. I would say if you could imagine us as a comic book then it would be easier to get a grasp on our attitudes and our personalities. Basically we're just trying to get our foot in the door. Bomb: So what's your long term plan for the future? Tony: My long term goal is to save the universe but that's a whole other story. Come out with a new album, come out with like three albums and then produce The Savages, produce Pimpin'/Comprehension, then I wanna do a book, a couple of movies just about our crew I got enough stories about our crew that we could make three or four movies right now, let alone soundtracks for those movies. Bomb: What direction do you see hip-hop headed in now, what do you see in the future? Tony: Right now I see an emergence with R&B coming, it's coming, it's inevitable you know. Mariah with "It's a Party". You know that's got to be the biggest crossover you have ever seen. As soon as everyone realises hip-hop came from R&B, really, all these samples and everything, they all came from R&B. Once they stop having all this animosity towards one another they are gonna realise that it's the same music. Bomb: It's all black music right? Tony: It's all black music, exactly. Bomb: I noticed when listening to a sample of "Molasses" that your production is jazz orientated, heavy on the mellow jazz trip. Tell us why you chose jazz, why didn't you do funk or something else? Tony: Hardcore rap and funk is cool... sometimes we gotta get outta that genre where it's expected. I know everybody, even the hardest rapper whoever he is sometimes he feels nice and high headed, you know happy like he might wanna sing a little something. Or he's got this melody in his head but he just feels like he can't say it 'til he because his hip-hop is supposed to be all hard and dark and you know all this shit. Me and my crew we don't believe in that at all, we believe in theme music, that's what we believe in. Before we even start a track, before a track can even be successful it has to be considered theme music. So if we say this track is about being in and sitting at the beach and watching butt naked booties go by or whatever then we have to design a track to sound just so, we can't just have another little George Clinton "Atomic Dog" loop and then say "On this is how I feel about these booties and this is how the I am." That shit's weak. There's so much music out there, it's just that rappers have this closed mind about how rap should sell. My crew is just trying to find new horizons right now. Personally we use a lot of jazz because all of our parents all listen to that old shit whether it be old George Clinton, Miles Davis, Quincy Jones, Charles Mingus... there's some that are European that never reached the states. Bomb: Organised Konfusion used some Charles Mingus on their last album... Tony: That's another crew right there. Never ever can compare their album to anyone else's because they say what they feel. Then on top of that they have the tracks to back it up well at least they did on their first album. They did they come a little harder on their second album, a little harder. I'm glad you noticed that about Molasses and about jazz. When I'm going to try and do once I'm in the industry I'm gonna do a lighter side of hip-hop album, not exactly like Jazzmatazz, kind like Jazzmatazz but better. If I had all those cat's that Guru had my album would have been double platinum. He had Ronny Jordan, Chaka Khan... Oh my god! shit like that. It's a good album but if it was me it would have been a little different. If I could get half those people you would be seeing some way out.
