Title: TRAINING PRESENTATIONS CONCERNING
COLUMBINE HIGH SCHOOL SHOOTINGS

Synopsis: Guidelines regarding training presentations concerning the Columbine High School Shooting investigation.

Details: This division has received numerous requests for training presentations on various aspects of the Columbine incident. Those requests have typically been for an overview of the incident, including major case management, use of Rapid Start, and task force procedures. Other requests have focussed on evidence recovery and/or explosive device identification and recovery.

Recently, a training video regarding Columbine made by the Littleton Fire Department resulted in an attempt by CNN to obtain a copy of the tape. CNN claimed that by virtue of the training presentations, the video was "in the public domain."

As this incident has received nationwide media coverage, any public presentation, even to a group consisting of law enforcement only, has a greater likelihood of attracting media attention.

This investigation is a pending 174A matter, therefore, any presentation or formal discussion of this case outside of the FBI should be coordinated with SSA [REDACTED] SSA [REDACTED] will review the proposed presentation for accuracy and/or appropriateness, and each proposed presentation will be approved at the ASAC level.

SHOOTING AT COLUBINE HIGH SCHOOL,
LITTLETON, COLORADO;
04/20/1999;
FIREARMS ACT - HOMICIDE;

Synopsis: Lead covered. Results of the NCAVC's school violence monograph will be provided to the Legat, Ottawa, for distribution to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or any other school system or police agency that the Legat may see fit to distribute this monograph to.

Details: The National Center for the Analysis of Violent Crime, Critical Incident Response Group, hosted a national symposium on school violence during the week of 07/12-16/1999, at the Xerox Document University, in Leesburg, Virginia. The purpose of the symposium entitled "School Shootings: A Threat Assessment Perceptive," was to collaborate with a select group of educators and experts in the field of adolescent violence in order to identify subtle behavior indicators of those students who may act out violently in a school setting. Investigators, prosecutors, and school administrators from 18 schools where shooting incidents and/or attempted school shootings occurred shared their experiences during the symposium.

The NCAVC currently is in the process of collating information received during the school violence symposium to identify risk factors for students as well as intervention strategies. A draft of the monograph is under review at this time and when completed will be submitted for publication. Copies of the monograph will be distributed to each FBI Field Office and Legat for appropriate dissemination.
